GOVERNMENT SOLUTIONS

MULTIFUNCTIONAL, STRONG, RELIABLE

WHO WE ARE

We started an industry in 1948, and we haven't stopped yet. For over seventy years, Elliott has been committed to delivering rugged design and multifunctional operation built with the finest components available. Today, Elliott proudly carries on our tradition of high standards for quality, safety and durability, working to design and build the best equipment available to keep you working safely and efficiently.

BUILT FOR YOU

Our mission is simple: creating the best solutions for lifting and positioning people and materials.

You can count on us to listen to you, take the time to understand your application and deliver the optimal solution for your job and the way you work.

ELLIOTT IS THE SUPERIOR CHOICE

We know that government users face a unique set of challenges, including safety and maintenance concerns and time and budget constraints. With Elliott's extensive experience and impressive roster of government clientele, you can rest assured you are making the best decision for your agency.

Safety / Elliott machines are designed, built & tested to comply with all relevant ANSI, ASME & OSHA regulations, and Elliott engineers actively participate on the committees that develop these standards. Elliott products offer outstanding structural stability and their telescopic 'point and shoot' design is intuitive and minimizes articulated tail-swing in traffic.

Budget / Elliott machines are multifunctional, so one Elliott machine can take the place of two or more machines in the fleet. Elliott is a Sourcewell supplier and offers a variety of leases and financing to allow machines to be purchased with little to no upfront cost.

Efficiency / Elliott users rave about the increased productivity and functionality they enjoy with their machines. The ease of setup, multifunctionality and ability to have all tools ready and available at height make jobs go quicker and let one crew tackle multiple assignments.

Maintenance / Elliott machines are backed by industry's best warranty, so they stay on the job and not in the shop. Local Elliott distributor service and support takes care of the rest.
